

John Barber, 1893-1965: Selections from the Archive

First America, then post-World War I Europe offered Romanian-born artist John Barber the visual stimulations of cultures in change. His observations, enthusiasms, and inquiry are recounted in his art, letters, postcards and writings on art and artists. This publication of selections from his extensive papers marks the establishment of his archive in the John Barber Memorial Collection at the University of Virginia's Bayly Art Museum. The gift of his library, personal papers, and a selection of paintings, drawings and etchings from his widow, Dr Margaret DeRonde Barber represents a full and productive career. Comprehensive in scope, the collection forms a basis for further research of the life and work of an enigmatic, elusive and intriguing painter who found his own voice amid the cacophony of the international art world from the 1920s into the 1960s.
